

Jim Dominic<skepticforum@gmail.com>

Hello,

I can't approve the post. I can't allow links to private correspondence.

mechtheist<mechtheist@gmail.com>

I was writing what I considered a 'letter to the editor' type communication, meaning for it to be public, it wasn't an exchange between me and artskeptic, I don't know who that is, both exchanges were initiated with an email to skepticssociety@skeptic.com, so artskeptic is your representative in the exchange. I would request that you, meaning The Skeptic Society, please consider the exchange public and allow the posting. If not, can you explain what are the reasons to deem it private?

Now I see I can't login, I get this message: "The specified username is currently inactive. If you have problems activating your account, please contact a board administrator."? What happened? If I try to resend my activation code, I get this: "The e-mail/loginname information submitted could not be found." The more I try to understand what is going here, the more unsettling this becomes. I've been a supporter/member for most of the last 20 years or so, having my forum account to be, apparently, deleted, with no explanation, ain't exactly kosher to my way of thinking.

mechtheist<mechtheist@gmail.com>

Are you barring me from the forum for no reason and refusing to answer my inquiry? What's going on here?